

SNIC-Industry Joint Awards 2011

SNIC-Industry Joint Awards

Call for Nominations 2011

The Singapore National Institute of Chemistry (SNIC), together with our industrial partners, offers national awards to recognize outstanding individuals for their significant and high impact achievements in selected disciplines of chemistry conducted in Singapore. These awards are in line with SNIC's chartered objectives to encourage, promote and support the advancement of chemical sciences in Singapore.

There are four annual awards in the following categories:

- HYFLUX-SNIC Award in Environmental Chemistry
- GSK-SNIC Award in Organic Chemistry
- BASF-SNIC Award in Materials Chemistry
- GIST-SNIC Award in Chemistry Education

There is no restriction on age, association and affiliation of a candidate but the work must be conducted in Singapore. A maximum of one winner will be identified for each award who will receive a $3,000 cash prize, trophy and certificate at the Annual Dinner of SNIC; each recipient is invited to give an award lecture in a designated conference hosted by SNIC.

We are now seeking nominations of suitable candidates based in Singapore. Evaluation will be carried out by independent judging panels appointed by SNIC. All nominations must be accompanied by the following supporting documents: a brief professional CV, documentation of achievements and contributions which could be in the form of published papers, citations, patents, technology transfer, commercialisation, or other relevant information.

Deadline for nomination is Thur 30th September 2010*.

You may refer to the website <http://snic.org.sg/awards/guidelines.html> for inaugural winners and other information.
